Classie Inn for Stock Show.
CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 11.—Rising from the ashes of the historic Transit House at the Union Stock Yards in Chicago, are the walls of the quaintest hostelry Chicago ever had—the "STOCK YARD INN," which will be ready for the entertainment of visitors to the next International Live Stock Exposition, November 30th to December 7th.

To furnish an adequate hotel for breeding and agricultural interests, who annually are attracted to the greatest live stock exposition the world ever knew, and to eradicate the scars left by the destruction of the old Transit House, The Stock Yard Company early planned to erect a new home for its patrons, adopting the Elizabethan old English style of architecture. With steel and reinforced concrete forming the principal basis for the structure, the completed hotel will seem "comfy" and home-like to the farmers, graziers and experts who come to Chicago. It will represent almost the last word in appointments for luxury, good service, sanitation and good cheer. It will be reminiscent in its architecture and permanency of construction of the country, which evolved the principles of breeding the age which heralded the beginning of the improvement of the types of meat animals—the gate-way to the greatest meat market in the world.

With a frontage of 220 feet on Halsted street and a depth of 280 feet the building will have a broad central corridor and double wing extensions in the middle and on the West end. The exterior treatment is emphatically Elizabethan; the foundation of concrete; the first story of red brick and the second and third stories of the impressive half-timbered many-gabled style of architecture.

The driveway from Halsted Street leads through the first floor into a large open grass court. The central feature of this court is a reproduction of the famous Hereford town hall in England, built about 1620, while in the treatment of some of the exterior reproductions of other historic structures in England are adopted. Among them the facade of the famous old Harvard House in Stratford. The super structure is of steel, all floors throughout being reinforced concrete. There will be 175 sleeping rooms, each room on the second floor being provided with a bath. The room and hall furnishings will be in that quiet taste which bespeaks comfort and which comfort with the fundamental idea of the builders in constructing an Inn, which will attain international fame for its comfort, safety and convenience.

YOUNG MAN ENDS LIFE BEFORE PASTOR'S EYES.

George Moreland Prays With Minister and Then Drinks Fatal Potion of Carbolic Acid.

HARMONY, Ind., Nov. 10.—Just a few minutes after he had come to the home of Rev. Mr. Vails and prayed with him for forgiveness of some sin, which he said he had committed, George Moreland, 27 years old, a young farmer, stepped into the front yard and swallowed the contents of a half ounce bottle of carbolic acid. He died almost immediately.

Mr. Moreland came to the home of Rev. Mr. Van Vail about 5 o'clock this evening and asked to have a few words with the preacher. He told the minister that he had committed an awful sin, and that he wanted to be forgiven for it. Mr. Vails then knelt in the front room with the young man and they prayed.

The young man seemed in the best of spirits when he left the house and Mr. Vail stood in the door and watched him start toward the gate. When he had nearly reached the gate he stopped, took a bottle from his pocket and drank the contents. He fell unconscious to the ground.

Dr. Vail ran to him when he realized what the young man's intentions were, but he was too late to prevent the act. A physician was summoned but the man had been dead several minutes when he arrived. The coroner was then notified and the body was taken to the Moreland home.

Moreland is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wise Moreland, who live 6 miles south of Harmony. It is said that his mind has been unbalanced since the loss of two valuable horses by fire recently. His parents are grief-stricken and his father is in a critical condition from the shock.

ROSE POLY IS FAR OUT CLASSED

OLD GOLD WARRIORS DOWN THE FIGHTING ENGINEERS AT TERRE HAUTE SATURDAY AFTERNOON BY SCORE OF 24 TO 0.

ROWAN PLAYS STAR GAME

Playing straight football and smashing through the Rose line for long gains, DePauw defeated Rose Poly on Saturday by the score of 24 to 0. Rowan, who played a sensational game for the Old Gold at every period, succeeded in carrying the oval over the line for three touchdowns. A drop kick, netting 3 points, completed the score of 24 to 0.

During the first quarter the Rose backs plunged through the DePauw line for short gains, but at no period was the DePauw goal in danger.

The play of the DePauw eleven was fast and snappy, and the backfield put the most aggressive style of football seen on the Rose Poly field this season. The DePauw rooters who accompanied the team, aided admirably in keeping up the spirits of the team and with the recent victory over Miami fresh in their memories, each player put up the scrappiest fight of the year. The DePauw section of the bleachers was in a constant row at all instances and between halves the rooters paraded the field, shouting and singing.

The game opened with Rowan kicking to Stoms, who returned the ball ten yards. DePauw held and Rose punted. The ball was then seen-sawed up and down the center of the field, until DePauw was stopped 30 yards in front of the goal, from which point Rowan succeeded in putting over a drop kick. The quarter ended with the ball in DePauw's possession in the center of the field. Score: DePauw 3; Rose Poly, 0.

During the second quarter the DePauw backs increased the ferocity of their attack and played the Rose team completely off its feet. During this period Rose's attack was seen to weaken, and their gains became fewer and shorter. After plunging the Rose line for first downs time after time, Rowan carried the ball through left tackle and scored the first touchdown. Tucker kicked goal. Score: DePauw, 10; Rose, 0.

During the intermission between the two halves, Coach McKinney succeeded in inducing Neff, who has been out of the game on account of parental objection, and who occupied a seat in the Rose bleachers, to don a uniform and enter the game. Due to lack of practice he lasted only a short time, and was taken from the line-up before the end of the quarter.

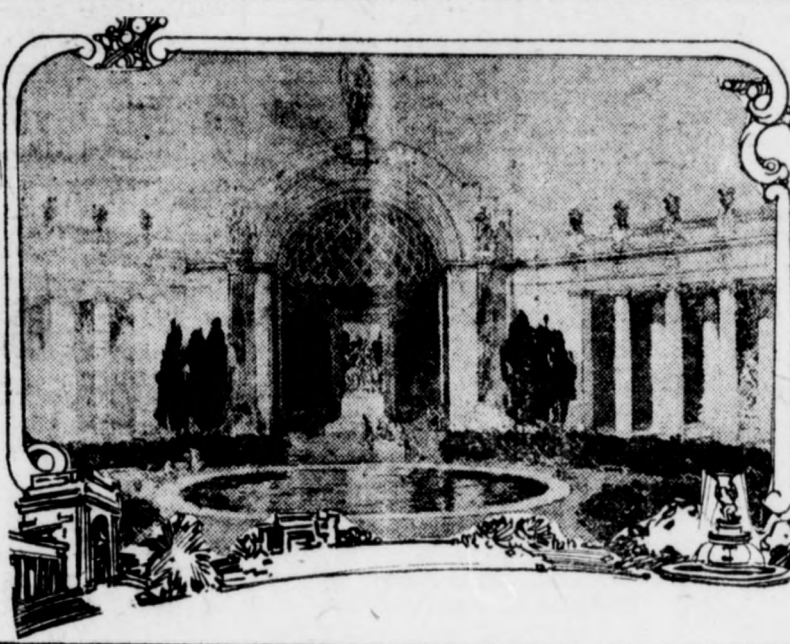

In the third quarter Rowan annexed another touchdown by the same tactics used in making the first. Tucker again kicked goal. Score: DePauw, 17; Rose, 0.

The only forward pass plays attempted in the game were used in the final period. DePauw succeeded in completing 2 passes and Rose 1. The DePauw line-up was shifted in the last quarter, Anderson going in at quarter; Worthington supplanting Tucker and Bremer relieving Grady. Before being removed from the game however, Rowan shoved the pigskin across for the last marker. The game ended with the ball in DePauw's possession.

Line-up and summary:
DePauw
Stephenson R. E. Moore
Bachelder R. T. Childs

HURTY IN CRUSADE AGAINST CIGARETTES

As a part of the crusade being conducted by the state board of health against cigarette smoking by the boys in the public schools of Indiana, Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the board, has sent circular letters to the superintendents of the various high schools. The letter has been received by the local school authorities.

The letter sent out by Dr. Hurty reads as follows:

"Dear Sir:—Cigarette Smoking is certainly an evil and the state board of health desires to abate it all it possibly can. We ask you therefore to co-operate with us in this work. It is certainly true that cigarette smokers have a lower efficiency than those who do not smoke them. If you will notice carefully you will find that those boys who smoke cigarettes are not as bright, do not progress as rapidly as those of the same mental grade who do not use the drug. Tobacco is of course a drug. If it did not contain a drug (nicotine) it certainly would not be in demand. It is the soothing effect of this drug that those who are addicted to smoking so much desire. Like the morphine habit, when it is once fastened on a person, it is difficult indeed to throw off. Not only does economy, efficiency and health oppose cigarette smoking and tobacco using, but the law itself commands against the use of cigarettes.

"Section 1644, First revised statutes provides—That any boy under 16 years of age, who smokes cigarettes is a delinquent child and can be proceeded against in manner provided by law for prosecution of persons charged with misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof may be released upon probation or may be dealt with by the court in such manner as may appear to be for the best interests of the child. In the Juvenile Court Act such prosecutions may be begun before any justice of the peace and by him certified up to the circuit court of the county. It should be impressed upon the boys that it is not manly, that it is not hygienic to smoke cigarettes. They should be made to understand that it lowers their efficiency, clouds their intellects makes them more liable to disease, and is contrary to the law for a boy under 16 years of age to use tobacco and establish smoking cigarettes."

Robertson Death Accidental.

WAVELAND, Ind., Nov. 10.—About two weeks ago James Robertson received a telegram from Hardesty, Alberta, Canada, saying: "Your brother Henry, has accidentally shot himself. Wire disposition of body." Another brother, Fred, left immediately for the scene of the tragedy. The first details were received yesterday. Mr. Robertson lived on a farm several miles from Hardesty, and his only companion was a nephew. The two had been out on the farm, and had a shotgun with them. When they returned to the house, Mr. Robertson took hold of the muzzle of the gun to draw it from the wagon, when it was discharged the load entering the body under the right arm. He bled to death in a short time. Mr. Robertson was a successful school teacher, and went to Canada several years ago. He pre-empted a farm and was doing well, having seven thousand bushels of grain on hand. The body was brought home.

The deceased had relatives in Putnam county and was well-known in the northern part of this county.

BRAZIL ELKS READY FOR MINSTREL SHOW.

Numerous Greencastle members of B. O. P. Elks Will Go to Brazil Tomorrow Night to See Performance.

Numerous Greencastle members of the Elks Lodge will go to Brazil this evening and tomorrow evening to attend the minstrel show to be staged by the Brazil Lodge of Elks. The Brazil lodge has made big preparations for the two night's event.

In regard to the show the Brazil Times says: "Everything is now ready for the rise of the curtain at the Sourwine Theatre, Monday night, for the B. O. P. Elks annual minstrel show. It will be held on two nights, Monday and Tuesday. The show this year contains a greater list of 'stars' and a number of the old favorite minstrel men. The opening is of unusual merit with the six end men: Anthony J. Frisz, Alex Cooper, Webb Berts, Virgil 'Buddy' Jalbert, Bert Lusk and Johnnie Winsey, this part of the program will be a 'hummer'. The men have a better line of jokes and songs and local hits than ever before.

"The olio is also good and 'The Bravest Man in Town,' which will be produced by an all star cast is said to be the funniest thing ever shown at a local home talent show. The final dress rehearsal will be held tomorrow night.

"An unusual feature will be a parade Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Fred Egner, principal clown of the Wallace-Hagenbeck Circus will assist the Elks and will sing accompanied by the band on National Avenue."

Prof. Barnes Honored.

At the meeting of the Indiana Association of Teachers of English, held at Indianapolis on Saturday, Prof. N. W. Barnes of DePauw university, was elected president of the association for the ensuing year.

MANY DEMOCRATS ATTEND MEETING

PROMINENT PARTY LEADERS GATHER AT INDIANAPOLIS ON SATURDAY NIGHT TO GREET THE SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATES FROM OVER THE STATE.

BRYAN RECEIVES CHEERS

Vice President-elect Marshall, W. J. Bryan, Governor-elect Samuel M. Ralston, Senator John W. Kern and Representative Charles A. Korbly of the Seventh District were speakers Saturday night at a ratification meeting, preceded by a parade, held under the direction of the Indiana Democratic Club.

Several thousand Democrats, including many from distant points in the state participated in the jollification. Robert C. Houston, Democratic editor of Frankfort, headed a delegation of rejoicing Democrats from the Ninth District, in every county comprising the district, gave a plurality for every candidate from coroner up to President and Governor.

Speeches Are Outdoor.

Wilbur E. Williams of Marion, who is happy over his own election to the office of prosecuting attorney, as well as that of the state and national tickets, was at the head of the Grant County jollifiers. It is said that practically every county in the state was represented in the parade, and later in the crowd which gathered in front of the Indiana Democratic Club to hear the speeches which were delivered with the speakers standing on the roof of the sun parlor.

Several hundred enthusiastic workers were in the parade which moved north on Delaware street to Twelfth street, thence to Pennsylvania street and passed the home of Governor Marshall where the automobile bearing the Governor, and Mr. Bryan joined the parade.

Leaders Are Present.

County Chairman Sullivan, Samuel Parrot and John Shea, also members of the Democratic county organization, were others riding in the machine. From the Marshall home the parade moved to Meridian street, thence south to Washington street, east on Washington to Pennsylvania, north to Vermont and west to the club. Senator Kern, Mr. Ralston, Representative Korbly and his brother, State Chairman Bernard Korbly, rode in the automobile which followed the Marshall and Bryan car.

Two bands and several drum corps played lively music, and each of the marchers carried a Roman candle, from which spouted red fire. Paper-mache rooters were worn on the hats of the "crowing" Democrats.

Bryan Is Cheered.

Robert E. Springsteen was chairman.

DO YOU TAKE THE HERALD?

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

Hard on Hall.

Approves of Hall Caine's recent lawsuit, a New York playwright said: "Hall Caine is always talking about his health, his ruined nerves, insomnia, and so forth. He is as proud of his invalidism as Sandow is of his muscles."

"The last time I saw Hall Caine was in his bedroom in the Hotel Walton, in Philadelphia. The little thin man, with his domelike forehead and weak, wispy whiskers, looked more like Shakespeare than ever."

"Mr. Hall Caine," I said, "I hope you're well."

"Well," he snarled, "I'm far from well. I haven't slept, sir, for two weeks."

"Then," said I, "you're ever so much better, for the last time I saw you you hadn't slept for a month."

RURAL ANALOGY.

Visitor—That boy of yours is a promising youth.

Farmer—Yes, he's purty likely, but a good deal depends on what he does with his talents. Sometimes the prize pumpkin makes the poorest kind of pies.

Fair Proposition.

A genial looking gentleman wanted an empty bottle in which to mix a solution, and went to a chemist's to purchase one. Selecting one that answered his purpose, he asked the shopman how much it would cost. "Well," was the reply, "if you want the empty bottle it will be a penny, but if you want anything in it you can have it for nothing." "Well, that's fair," said the customer; "put in a cork."—Argonaut.

Fatal Curiosity.

A little boy drove his family nearly crazy asking questions. One day, after he had asked his mother several million questions, she said to him: "Jimmy, for pity's sake, stop asking questions. You drive me frantic. Don't you know that curiosity killed a cat?" Jimmy was crushed and for a long time was silent. At last he went to his mother and asked: "Ma, what did that cat want to know?"

THANKS, ANYHOW.

Farmer—A burglar stole one of our turkeys.

His Wife—Is that so?

Farmer—Yes, but he left a note saying that he left us the other turkey so we would have something to be thankful for.

Lesson in Etiquette.

"I was ashamed of you at that dinner last night, you made so much noise drinking your tea."

"Why, I was only sipping it. It was hot."

"I should say you were gargling. Why didn't you pour it out into your saucer, the way I did?"—Atchison Globe.

Difficult Eating.

Mother (at lunch)—Yes, darling, these little sardines are sometimes eaten by the larger fish.

Mabel (5 years old)—But, mamma, how do they get the cans open?—Ideas.

Modern Method.

"I am a candidate for your hand."

"But my parents have endorsed another young man."

"All right; I'll run as an insurgent."—Houston Chronicle.

Tough Job.

"All flesh is grass," sighed the landlady.

"I'd hate to have to mow a meadow of beefsteak like this," growled her boarder, throwing down his knife in disgust.—Boston Transcript.

HE NEVER CAME BACK.

Candid Brother Told too Much of the Letter's Contents.

The ripe ruddy glow of sunset was upon everything in the sleepy little village, and a tall, handsome girl—well—er—let's say young woman, and not bother about how many summers—but with a rather worn expression in her large gray eyes, stood talking to a boy of 10 or 11 years of oldness who was gathering nasturtium seeds.

"Where is the Niobe now, George?" the maiden asked, sadly.

"Last we heard of her," answered the boy, "she was at Santiago, in the Pacific. She was on her way to the Falkland Islands."

"And," continued the maid, her color heightening slightly, "your big brother Harry, how was he?"

"Oh, ripping, according to his letter," said the seed-gatherer, brightening up. "He's been doing some tradin' or dealin' of some sort on his own, and he speaks of having made a regular pot o' money. I reckon I shall take to the sea when I'm a bit older."

"Did he say anything else, George?" "Oh, yes; he asked how you was."

The girl's—that is, we mean the young woman's—heart beat all the faster as the boy spoke, but, controlling her emotion, she asked:

"He asked after me, did he?" "Yes, he did. He asked if there was any likelihood of your turning a nun and enterin' a nunnery for good, as if so he'd come back and settle down quietly; otherwise, he thought he should see about takin' a place in Terra del Fuego!"

The sunset was riper and ruddier now, but it was no ruddier than the jet of warm gore that belched forth from young George's jugular vein when the enraged girl—beg pardon, young woman—fell violently upon him and stabbed him with her hatpin.—Tit-Bits.

NOT A FARMER.

Young Lady (who has just been introduced)—Did you say that you were a farmer, Mr. Bouncer?

Gentleman (with the diamond pin)—Not much! I said that I'd made a fortune out of wheat. You never heard of a farmer doing that.—Illustrated Bits.

A Football Victim.

Huggins—What has become of Fanning?

Muggins—Oh, he's laid up—a victim of football.

Huggins—I didn't know he ever played the game.

Muggins—He doesn't. He sprained his larynx telling the referee how things ought to be done.—Tit-Bits.

Strategy.

Her Husband—My dear, how did you happen to employ such a pretty nurse girl?

His Wife—I didn't happen to do it. I did it because I wanted the children to have police protection when they are in the park or in the street.—Scraps.

A New Humiliation.

"Did you have any trouble with the customs people when you came home?"

"Yes," replied Mrs. Cumrox, "that horrid appraising person insinuated that some of the things we brought over weren't worth as much as we paid for them!"—Washington Star.

Amusing Him.

"What!" The customer at the barber's seemed perturbed. "What are you going to let this small boy shave me?"

The barber beamed.

"Oh, let the boy have his fun for once, sir," he said. "It's his birthday!"

After.

"Then you think she'll marry again?"

"I'm sure of it. Her late husband left her some tobacco coupons, but not enough to get anything with."—Washington Herald.

Just the Expense.

Scottish Bachelor—Will ye hae some tea?

Visitor—Oh, please don't trouble.

Bachelor—It's no the trouble; it's just the expense.—Punch.

The Circus Parade.

The Camel—"You refused that peanut from the vender on the curb?"

"The Elephant"—Yes, I have been warned to beware of the gifts of the Greeks."

Real Generosity.

Club Waiter (dishing)—I dreamed last night, sir, that you gave me a five-dollar bill.

Stingy Member—Indeed, James! That's a little high for a tip; but—er—you may keep it.—

YERKES FIGHT IS SETTLED.

Widow Under Agreement is to Receive More Than $2,000,000.

Under the arrangement for settling the $11,000,000 estate of the late Charles T. Yerkes, street railway magnate, Mrs. Mary Adelaide Yerkes, his widow, will receive slightly more than $2,000,000.

Mrs. Mary A. Yerkes.

This is considerably more than friends of Mrs. Yerkes had expected she would receive, some of the estimates showing that practically all of the estate would be consumed by the liabilities and costly litigation that has been pending in the federal courts for three years.

And of course, the hats were all exactly alike.—The Sketch.

Suffrage or Race Suicide.

Mrs. Catherine Wayne McCullough, lawyer and a Justice of the Peace in Chicago, asserts that women are justified in refusing to bear children until they have equal rights in the guardianship of their offspring. She told the girl students in Downer College that it took the women of Illinois thirty years to have the laws of that State changed so that mother and father have an equal right to their children, and pointed out that only by the same kind of hard and unceasing effort could women hope to gain equal suffrage. She expressed herself as against the militant methods of the English Suffragettes until it is seen that other means have failed. Her plan is publicity and work. She would flood the stage with suffragist plays, the newspapers with "vote for women" articles, editorials and poems, the mails with postcards calling for the ballot and public meetings and discussions at all times.

"WOMAN WITH THE SERPENT'S TONGUE."

Miss Violet Asquith, Daughter of the British Prime Minister.

Buttonholes in Strips.

The home dressmaker or the seamstress who dislikes to work buttonholes will find joy in the fact that they can be bought by the yard and in all kinds of fabrics. They come on muslin or silk strips and can be easily attached to the edge of a blouse which is to fasten under a fly.

A DOG REPUBLIC GONE.

The most self-respecting dog community in the world, a canine republic in an ancient capital of despotism, perished when the New Turks in Constantinople decreed the death of its famous street dogs. Dog-catchers with nets and huge wooden tongs took them, protesting at the outrage, dustcarts bore them away, that gloves may be fashioned of their skins; but their memory shall not perish. The Stamboul dogs were not owned; they were citizens; they looked on no man as master, nor molested man, nor had with him any dealings. They were as free as if the great city were a jungle. Each dog kept to his ward; if he strayed he met the fate of a Gotham gang-leader on another gang's beat. Yet there were certain captain-dogs which went where they would, perhaps as representatives, feeling the pulse of the public. Moslems do not keep dog pets, holding them unclean beasts. Yet with that inconsistency that tempers a rigid religion, rich men willed money to feed the dogs of their wards and the "wakf" or trust was faithfully carried out. Hence the enmity of the rich dogs of a favored quarter against social climbers from slum streets. There was no socialism in their republic, and no anarchy. The dogs were the street-cleaning department, but despised their task and did it badly. They offended Western visitors by their diseases, the emaciation of age, broken limbs. Yet give every dog beset by misfortune the choice of life or death and how many would hobble to the pound? Progress is a foe to the picturesque. Constantinople has lost in a chorus of yelps one charm for the philosopher. There is one republic the less in a world that has too few.—New York World.

WOMEN PROUD OF BIG FEET.

The aristocratic women of Munich have organized a society called "Die Grosse Fusse," or "The Big Feet." There seems to be a certain number of Munich women who have large feet, and the object of the association is "to preach the gospel that big feet are not only healthful but beautiful." They do not make any effort to apologize for the size of their feet, but they wish to stop the gibes so frequently aimed at big feet. They undoubtedly have an arduous task, for there have been witticisms about big feet since before the days of classic Greece. Thousands of years ago savage tribes jeered one another in regard to their racial feet. There is an almost prehistoric gibe that the Pleists had feet so large that when they lay down to rest in the sun they put their feet up as sunshades. There is a story told about another race whose feet were so large that if they fell down or were pushed over they could not get up again of their own accord. And in our own time something has been said about the big feet of the Chicago girls.

PROMISING BOYS.

Seven poor children, four girls and three boys, all about ten years old, went to a nearby seashore resort, in charge of two women, for a day's outing, relates the New York Tribune. The funds for the picnic were provided by two boys who sell papers and who live in one of the two houses from which the excursion party was recruited. One of the women in charge of the children said that the boys had arranged the outing "of their own accord, and the remarkable thing is this: they are not good boys by any means and one of them is probably the naughtiest boy in the neighborhood. But we think that when boys do little things like this they will come out all right."

JAPAN'S FREEDOM.

There is also no single thing which perhaps more explains Japan's modern measureless rise than the fact that Japan has never suffered from malaria. But lagged China has been sick of it for centuries. Everywhere stands evidence that it is only those countries which are free from malaria that are progressing and are not degenerating. South America is far behind North America. Spain once promised to rule the world, but malaria is killing her. See the difference between the malarial and non-malarial parts of Africa.

Speaking scientifically we are all only visible expressions of certain degrees of heat. Absolute zero is a state of nothingness. An individual is, therefore, nothing but a bunch of sun's rays dressed in other rays that have lost their identity. He is number 98, screened with minus 3 or plus 2.

According to Dr. Elliot, "It is a well established practice in sensible families that children of eight, nine and ten years should be in bed at 7.30 o'clock in the evening." Is this the way they bring up boy prodigies for Harvard?

There should be a law punishing meanness. Many people are naturally mean, and justice will never be done until a means of punishing them is found.—Atchison Globe.

Glee Club Adopts Garb.

After arguing the question through several meetings the Glee Club members have finally decided upon their garb. They are to have brilliant scarlet sweater coats with large white collars and a white border all round. On the left hand side is to be a white harp. The contract was let to A. G. Spaulding & Co., through Russell Ritchie, at $81.00 per dozen.

WITH OTHER SCHOOLS.

Drinking intoxicating liquors at all fraternity reunions must stop in the future, according to edict issued by University of Illinois authorities. This action comes as a finale to the drunken orgy Illinois students participated in following the Indiana game this year.

The "Old Wabash Reunion" an annual affair is to be held this year on Nov. 9. Every alumnus of the university has been sent a letter asking him to return for this series of events. The committee is considering a banquet for all the old "W" men. The football game that day will be between Wabash and Earlham.

The "W", the official award of merit at Wisconsin, will be awarded to members of the college papers. The plan of the department is to award fees, pins, or buttons of some design. The editors and business managers of the dailies and class books will be the ones to receive these tokens of merit.

The management of the athletic association of the University of Penn. will give free tickets to all the boys in the public schools of Philadelphia whose average grade in all studies is 70 per cent. or over.

BRIDGES WINS IN TOURNAMENT

Defeats Brickert in Hard-Fought Set of Finals.

The deciding set in the tennis tournament singles was played yesterday afternoon on the college courts between "Doc" Bridges and E. R. Brickert, ending in a victory for Bridges, by a score of 10-8. Both men played fast tennis and the final result was in doubt during the greater part of the match. Four sets had been played before, each man winning two sets apiece so that yesterday's results decided the contest.

Medals will be awarded to Bridges and MacGrew, winners in the doubles played a short time ago. A medal will also be awarded to Bridges for winning the singles.

A Dash for Liberty

Nobody knew that Bobby had heard what they said. When six women are disposed about a Summer veranda with a tea table in full blast they are not likely to observe little boys temporarily beneath the porch in search of fishing tackle.

There in the musty shadows Bobby sat on the gravel and stared at the outside sunshine through the crevices of the lattice work that inclosed the house foundations. Above him he heard his mother and the rest actually laughing! And after what they had said! In his emotion Bobby squeaked a fishhook and moaned in consequence.

After he had extracted the stinging barb he laboriously and stealthily crawled out, dragging his pole and line. Back of the house he sat down on a stump to think things over.

"Did you ever know time to go so fast?" Mrs. Jones had chirruped.

"Yes," his mother had responded. "We shall close the cottage and go back to Chicago next week. Bobby's school begins the week after."

Bobby was nine. As he sat on the stump with the apple orchard in front of him he saw instead of it the long staircase with the monitor at the top and felt the slippery shininess of a stack of brand-new school books. He knew just how the pages would stick together in their abominable newness and how weird the unfamiliar contents would look.

He felt cramped, bound down, dominated. All the delightful buoyancy which had been his for three months had vanished and big balls of lead weighed down his toes and fingers and shoulders. He drooped as he felt the weight of the world. He felt very old and very tired. Once, under his breath, he said: "Damn!" as he kicked the stump on which he sat.

His eye fell on the recumbent fish pole and another pang lacerated his heart. No more for him the shiny silverness of the dear little bass he had been catching! And those trees in the woods full of green nuts! And the ripening grapes! And the sun and saffron bushes already beginning to hint of red and orange glories! And the rabbits!

With one bound Bobby glided for the rabbit hutch. Eagerly lifting out the two half-grown black and white bunnies, he stuffed them into his pockets. Then, grabbing up the fish pole, he looked hurriedly round. A new light was in his eyes. There was determination about his mouth. He headed for the kitchen.

"Cookies, Norah!" he begged. "Lots of them."

"Yeh won't have no appetite for supper," said Norah, handing over Bobby's perquisites.

His lips tightened, for little she knew! Supper indeed! Crawling under the fence because he was on a desperate expedition that made a gate unbefitting his progress, Bobby struck out for the woods. Once his feet had touched the Indian trail he halted his mad rush.

They never would find him! None of the grown-ups ever walked the Indian trail because their hair caught in the branches and their lake skirts in the prickly wild smilax. Their feet did not know the delight of the stretches of brown hemlock needles nor their noses the smell of woodsy things. Bobby's nostrils twitched like those of his rabbits as he sniffed balsamic fragrance.

He walked and walked, finding the fishpole difficult to carry when taken in combination with a narrow path and eager, reaching bushes. He had walked farther on the trail than he had done before last summer and the trees were bigger and closer together. It was even gloomy, for now the sun had gone down outside. The quick dusk in among the trees chilled his spirits.

He stood still and listened. Not a sound. If you want to realize how scary absolute silence is you should be a little boy of nine, far from home.

Wait! There was a noise—oh, what was that awful noise? It was the blood pounding in Bobby's temples.

He dragged out the bunnies and hugged them closer. They were warm, and their fur was soft as they cuddled at his neck. He took a few slow steps. A branch crackled up above. Bobby stared feverishly into the gloom overhead. It might be a panther or a lion or a tiger! Dreadful thought!

Turning, he crashed through underbrush, dropping his fishpole. Little whimpers were struggling up to his lips, but he bit them back.

When it was entirely dark he found he was quite lost. After he had cried himself helpless he went to sleep through sheer weariness.

The man with the lanterns found him in the early dawn, huddled up in a miserable little ball with the rabbits in his arms. They thankfully took him home.

"Don't you see how very wrong it was of you, Bobby?" his pale and heavy-eyed mother asked some hours later when she had extracted the whole story. "What made you do it?"

Bobby put more sugar on his oatmeal unprepared. Somehow, back home with his father and mother and the old familiar things about him the proceeding of yesterday did seem foolish. School wasn't as bad as panthers.

"I dunno," said Bobby. "Can I have another cookie?"

CANCER IN ANIMALS.

For several years an inquiry into the nature, cause and curability of cancer was undertaken in England by a company of specialists, whose expenses were paid by a public subscription. These men make annual reports of their progress, the latest one being made a few weeks ago at a meeting of subscribers to the work.

One of the most interesting things described this year is a class of experiments on animals, mostly caged mice. To hundreds of these creatures it has been possible to transplant cancers from other mice. The animals can be so treated that a second transplantation will do no harm. The first one so transferred takes root, but can be cured, and the second one falls to get a foothold. It has been discovered, though, that the serum so used will not protect a mouse against "spontaneous" cancer. Many mice, like human beings, develop cancer without any apparent cause. This is very different from one which has been transplanted. Not only is it unpreventable to a great extent, but it is incurable as yet.

So far as the outside public is concerned, the work done so far by the British experts does not seem encouraging, but they hope by further experiments to accomplish more than they have in the past. They carefully warn physicians not to use on human patients the serum which has been tried on mice, and no doubt their advice will be followed. Their caution will in some minds inspire the greater confidence in the wisdom of any future recommendations they may make.

TOBACCO FOR SICK CRIPPLES.

To see a young Yankee, whose foot and leg had been crushed by a construction car in the wilds, Tip went a-wandering to a distant hospital, filled with hundreds of maimed, bruised, mangled and disordered bodies of living but suffering humanity. The most noticeable thing about the desires of the patients was their longing for the hour when, after weeks or months of helpless confinement to a bed, they could first crawl out to the lawn or be wheeled by chair to a balcony—for what? To smoke. Most of them were strangers in a strange land, some of them could not make friends even among their crippled fellows in the wards, for the different languages they spoke. But when they were able to get into the air to meet an old friend and old comrade common to all of them—Old Nicotine—they were as happy as if they were whole and sound and well. Tip never felt so kindly toward tobacco as on those visits to the hospital, where no visitor could give those battered men a fraction of the cheering or soothing companionship which they themselves could suck from a pipe.—Tip, in the New York Press.

THE MONODONTOMERUS.

The gypsy moth, which invaded this state, has a formidable natural enemy with a formidable name. It is well that it has. The moth has cost Massachusetts and the adjacent states several million dollars since an absent-minded professor let the first imported female specimen flutter out of his study window. Governor Hughes, of New York, signed a bill appropriating $50,000 to exterminate the pest, which last year began to devour the foliage near Albany. Probably some of this money will be used to liberate a few thousand specimens of the now thoroughly domesticated monodontomerus, which ought to kill the gypsy, if anything there be in a name.—Lewiston Journal.

TWO "DRY" BATTLESHIPS.

The British navy has just taken a step unprecedented in its history. The two cruisers Rainbow and Niobe are to be teetotal men of war, contrary to all marine traditions. Grog has always been a part of the standard ration, being a concoction of one part rum to three parts water, but no such luxury is to be permitted on the two ships above mentioned. In the old days, in fact down to 1830, the daily allowance to each man was a gallon of ale and half a pint of rum. The quantity has been greatly modified, but it certainly never entered any sailor's head that the time was coming for total abstinence.—Chicago Tribune.

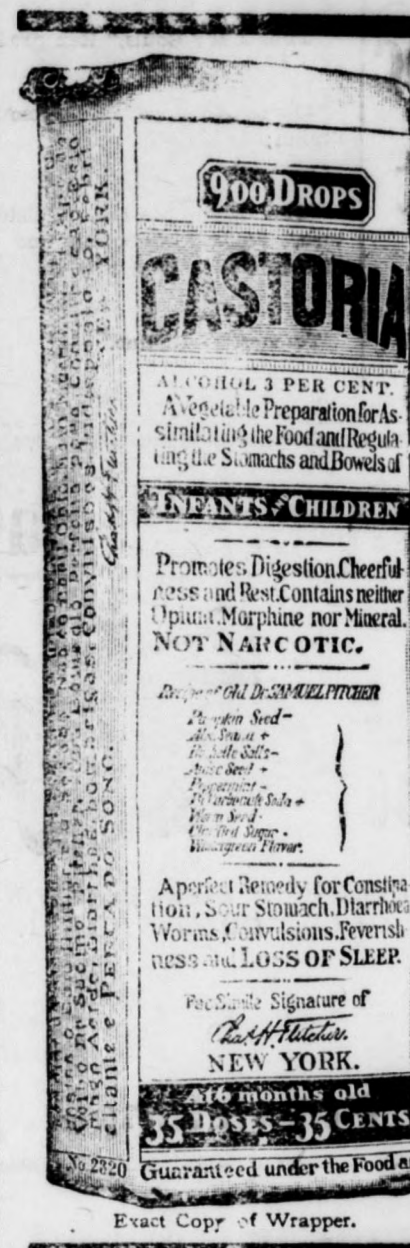

EFFECT OF FREIGHT RATES.

It is true that a small increase in freight rates will not of itself raise the price of food upon the table, but it will do this: It will give the Beef Trust, the Milk Trust and others of that ilk an excuse for raising the price of their wares. If with the present transportation rates the Beef Trust can gouge a thirty-five per cent. dividend out of the public and the Milk Trust from twenty-five to sixty to sixty per cent. on stock mostly water, think how much more they will take if they have the semblance of a chance of winning that the railroads are making them lose money.—Toledo Blade.

Daniel Waldo Field, forty-five, rich, an employer of thousands of men, went to college to complete his broken early education, when he might have played the Monte Carlo-Great White Way-Palm Beach circuit too.

It sometimes happens that a man plays an errorless game because he accepts mighty few chances; the man in the right garden is pretty sure to have a better fielding record than the shortstop.—Atchison Globe.

The best way to lead the weak to wrongdoing is to make a mockery of the punishment of the strong.

Statements That May Be Investigated. Testimony of Greencastle Citizens.

When a Greencastle citizen comes to the front, telling his friends and neighbors of his experience, you can rely on his sincerity. The statements of people residing in far away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below a statement of a Greencastle resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

William W. Matkin, carpenter, 421 E. Washington St., Greencastle, Ind., says: "A number of years ago I was in a railroad wreck and my back and kidneys were injured. After that I suffered from pains in my loins and the kidney secretions were too frequent in passage, causing me annoyance. I tried different remedies and treatments, but was not relieved until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They made me feel better from the first and I was soon relieved. I have no objection to my name being used in the local papers recommending Doan's Kidney Pills."

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with the whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers. (Advertisement.)

MANY DEMOCRATS

ATTEND MEETING.

man of the general arrangements, and Frank L. Bridges was in charge of the parade. Fred Hoke, president of the Indiana Democratic Club, presided at the meeting following the parade.

Mr. Bryan, who came here from Portland, Ind., where a Democratic jubilee was held Saturday, was given an ovation when he entered the lobby of the Denison Hotel, shortly before 6 o'clock that evening. The lobby was filled with Indiana University students, who had come here for the Indiana-Iowa game, and they began a demonstration which continued for several minutes.

Commoner Makes Speech.

Mr. Bryan finally responded to the repeated demands for a speech. He said that Woodrow Wilson had received the votes of thousands of college men and he expressed his appreciation for their support.

Mr. Ralston who reached the hotel at about the same time of Mr. Bryan's arrival, was also cheered by the lusty-lunged football rooters. A few men called for Albert J. Beveridge who had been at the hotel earlier in the afternoon, and this caused Mr. Ralston to say that he wished to express his thanks to Mr. Beveridge for helping him defeat Col. Durbin. Mr. Ralston made a happy talk, which pleased the college boys and called for more cheers.

Visits Marshall Home.

Mr. Bryan and Mr. Ralston took dinner together at the Denison hotel, and they returned to that hotel after the meeting to spend the night.

Soon after he had dined, Mr. Bryan was taken to the Marshall home, where he was permitted to chat alone with the Vice President-elect until time for the parade.

Their visit with each other caused some to speculate as to whether they talked about the possibilities of Mr. Bryan entering the Cabinet of the Cabinet of the new President. Mr. Bryan will go from here to Washington and he may meet President-elect Wilson while in the East.—Indianapolis Star.

DePAUW IS TO ENTER RUN

LARGE SQUAD OF MEN WORK OUT FOR ANNUAL THANKS. GIVING EVENT.

MEET WITH EARLHAM ASSURED

Entry blanks have been received by Track Manager Emison for the annual Y. M. C. A. cross-country run at Indianapolis on Thanksgiving morning. Any amateur in the state can enter.

A large squad of men has been practicing for some time under the direction of "Banty" Dale and weekly try-outs for this event will be held beginning Monday at 4 o'clock. The men who show up best in these try-outs will be sent to Indianapolis at the expense of the athletic association. Benham, the lanky distance runner, will not be able to compete. Dave Frazeur, who has already won a first prize in this event, is trying out and can be depended on to finish close to the leaders. French, a freshman, from Anderson, is making good time in practice, and much is expected from him.

There are nine prizes to be awarded, one time prize and eight place prizes. The event is a handicap affair so every one will have a fair chance. Manager Emison has a meet with Earlham practically scheduled and dual meets with several other schools will probably be held.

ELECTION EXPENSES OF CANDIDATES.

The sworn statements as to the election expenses of the candidates at the late election are now being filed with the Secretary of State. These itemized statements are interesting and some of them are unique.

For instance the statement of George W. Brill, who was elected Judge of the Hendricks County Circuit Court, sets out that his expense in the race was $23.85, of this amount over one-half, wit: $8.95, was expended for line used in running his automobile in making the canvass.

AMUSEMENTS.

When the Ziegfeld "Follies" are announced for a week at the Fish's Opera House, Indianapolis, means that the event of the season is at hand and everyone plans to see the attraction. For the entire week, November 18th, Indianapolis will have another Ziegfeld production which is said to exceed in excellence even his famous "Follies" shows. "The Winsome Widow" attraction, featuring Frank Traub and Dorothy Jordan created a big hit in New York City and more recently in Chicago where it played to a run of capacity business. Probably there has never been gathered together in one musical show so many high-priced entertainers as in many of them being actors and actresses who have headed their own companies. Besides there is a chorus of beautiful girls and the field is accredited with gathering together the most attractive characters on the American stage. Beautiful scenery, a fine act, splendid dancing—all the attributes necessary to an enjoyable evening's entertainment will be found in "Winsome Widow."

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

The Coming Corn Show.

There is much talk and great interest manifested in the corn exhibit to be held at the Central National Bank and the artistic and successful growers of the county are fully showing the best samples of their growing skill at the appointed time. Each exhibit will consist of five ears of corn, and as the corn crop in Putnam county this year is "the ever," it goes without saying that show will be a good one in all varieties and every particular. That there is possibly but little opportunity for improvement in quality of Putnam county corn, there is large opportunity for improvement in the yield per acre.
